

Singapore-based wealth firm expands products portfolio

By Ishika Mookerjee / 26 Apr, 2016 at 03:46

Swiss-Asia Financial Services, a firm that provides a fund management platform and wealth platform to independent asset managers, has announced the appointment of a new portfolio manager following the addition of a fund to its platform.

Wen Zhang Goldberg, who was head of emerging markets at French asset manager Carmignac Gestion prior to this, has been hired to oversee the Shanti IndiAsean fund.

She joined Carmignac Gestion in Paris to manage the emerging market equity fund Carmignac Emergents in 2001, after which she became head of EMs, supervising $2.2 billion assets under management.

Swiss-Asia has become the sub-investment manager for the Shanti IndiAseanfund after signing a Memorandum of Understanding with French asset management firm Twenty First Capital.

Combining top-down and bottom-up analysis, the fund will seek for absolute performance in equities listed in India and ASEAN.

Hedge fund partnership

In another development, Swiss-Asia has signed a deal with Splendor Capital Management (HK) Ltd for the Credence Global fund, a hedge fund managed by chief investment officer at Credence Global, Ruhong Huang.

He will be assisted by head of trading Iris Huang.

Huang will manage the fund using relative value trading, which is the process of identifying and capturing likely changes in the price relationship between related or similar assets in the same or different markets.

Huang has been trading Chinese and international financial and commodity markets for 18 years.

His trading life started in the 1990s when China first allowed cash equity and commodity futures trading.

The fund currently has $150 million assets under management.
